The Conversation Collective is going GLOBAL
And we want you to get involved!

We are looking for young women to take part in making the second series of The Conversation Collective podcast. As part of The Convo Co team you will lead the creation of a podcast series which connects the voices of women and young women from across the globe.

This project will take you on a journey around the world to capture conversations all about wellbeing and empowerment. You will get to kōrero with women and young women living in different countries, learn about what wellbeing means to them, and discuss your shared experiences of how Covid-19 has impacted your lives.

What you need to know:
- In order to take part you must be 16-24 years old and living in the Wellington region.
- This project will run from July - December 2020.
- The deadline to apply is 8th July 2020.
- You will need to be able to commit a few hours a week to this project.
- As a team we will be meeting up regularly (weekly or fortnightly) either in person or on Zoom.
- You will need to have access to the internet and a device for taking part in Zoom video calls.
- Because we will be recording internationally the podcast will be recorded online, rather than in person.
- This podcast series will be focused on young women’s wellbeing & physical activity. We’ll also be talking about what impact the Covid-19 pandemic has had on these things for young women across the world.
- Making a podcast series will take you on amazing journey! It will involve making new friends, interviewing people, recording conversations, and learning about the lives of women & young women around the world.
More about the podcast...
The Conversation Collective is a Shift podcast focused on topics surrounding young women’s wellbeing. Our dream was to create a platform that elevates young women’s voices, so that a wide audience could hear, and learn from, young women speaking about wellbeing issues that concern them. You can listen and subscribe to the podcast on Spotify and Apple podcasts.

The first series of episodes was designed and created by a team of inspiring 14-19 year old women; Ronia, Jess, Cayla, Kaitlyn, Gina and Brooke. The team spoke to some fabulous guests and had eye opening conversations on identity, education, role models, social media, and physical activity.

“My highlight of making the podcast so far has been conducting the interviews and being able to talk about topics I’m passionate about with both like minded people and people in positions where they are trying to affect change everyday.”

Jess Smith, who co-hosted the episode ‘Inclusivity and Education’.

How do I apply?!
1. Record a short video - 2 mins is plenty! (If you don’t want to record a video, or can’t for any reason, don’t worry! You can send an audio clip or simply write your application instead.)

2. In your video, audio clip or email, tell us:
- Your name and how old you are
- Which city you live in
- What’s your fav podcast or series at the moment & what do you like about it?
- If you could interview anyone (they can be real, fictional, historical) on a podcast, who would it be? What would you ask them?
- Why would you want to be involved in making The Conversation Collective podcast?

3. Once you’re happy with your video email it to us shiftfoundationnz@gmail.com with the subject heading “I want to make a podcast”.

4. Don’t forget the deadline to apply is 8th July 2020…. What are you waiting for?!
